The Italian Centre for International Development (ICID) and the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) are joining hands in a workshop on international development.

The workshop will convene academics and development practitioners to present innovative research on key development challenges, including migration, climate change, rural development and labour market.

The workshop will also identify information gaps relating to these themes, thereby helping to guide future research efforts.

This conference is co-organised with and funded by
